

Burroughs Audubon Very Important Partners

Jackson County Parks and Recreation provides Burroughs Audubon with its Nature Center & Library. Being able to provide outreach, free programs, and a natural history library to the KC area would not be possible without its support. We are grateful.

Burroughs Audubon is the Greater Kansas City chapter of the National Audubon Society. National Audubon works tirelessly in support of bird and wildlife conservation, both here in Missouri and across the nation. Please add your voice of support by signing up to receive Action Alerts from the Audubon Action Center.

The Missouri Master Naturalist™ program is a community-based natural resource education and volunteer service program for adults, sponsored by the Missouri Department of Conservation and the University of Missouri Extension. Burroughs Audubon is grateful to the Osage Trails Chapter in Kansas City and the Loess Hills Chapter in St. Joseph for all their volunteer hours. If you have a love for nature and the drive to conserve it, we encourage you to join the program.

Kansas City WildLands is a coalition of resource professionals, private conservation organizations and conservation minded citizens established to restore and manage the remnants of Kansas City's original landscape.

Missouri State Parks has partnered with Burroughs Audubon since 2008 for the Iatan/Weston River Corridor IBA and Wings Over Weston. Burroughs Audubon is grateful to their staff for all the support they provide.

The Missouri Department of Conservation protects and manages Missouri's fish, forest, and wildlife resources. They also facilitate your participation in resource-management activities, and provide opportunities for you to use, enjoy and learn about nature. MDC has partnered with Burroughs Audubon since 2008 for the Iatan/Weston River Corridor IBA and Wings Over Weston. We are grateful to their staff for all the support they provide.

Founded in 2012, Heartland Conservation Alliance (HCA) is an alliance of conservation groups and entities intentionally collaborating toward common goals to care deeply for the beautiful places in the KC metro area. As an urban land trust, HCA convenes interested stakeholders, pools resources, and protects natural areas for the enjoyment and benefit of all.

The City of Weston has been one of the top supporters of Wings Over Weston since it began in 2010. Thank you to the mayor, aldermen, and especially Kim Kirby who has been our voice. We appreciate you.

Platte County Parks and Recreation has partnered with Burroughs Audubon in many endeavors and a future partnership is in the works. Burroughs Audubon is looking forward to having a presence in the northland.

Backyard Bird Center on NW Barry Road is the Northland's largest selection of feeders, seed mixes, and birding supplies. More importantly, they are the biggest retail supporter of Burroughs Audubon and we are grateful. Please shop there and tell them Burroughs Audubon sent you!

The Wildlife Society at Missouri Western State University has provided Volunteer hours at Wings Over Weston and at several fundraising events. Its students work hard to conduct outreach as they earn experience towards their wildlife conservation degrees.

Missouri River Bird Observatory Each year, MRBO conducts avian population monitoring and applied research on almost 100,000 acres of Missouri's most imperiled habitats—prairies, wetlands and forests. The resulting data are communicated to land managers, owners, and the public so that we all further understand specific effects of stewardship on birds. Education and outreach are integral components of MRBO's work and take place in both formal and informal settings.

The Platte Land Trust protects land and open space cherished by people and communities for the benefit of future generations. Platte Land Trust's most recent partnership collaboration was for Snowball Hill in Cass County, Harrisonville, Missouri.

No one has the pulse of our legislators and conservation issues like Conservation Federation of Missouri. Because it ensures conservation of Missouri's wildlife and natural resources, and preservation of Missouri's rich outdoor heritage through advocacy, education, and partnerships. Burroughs Audubon is proud to be an affiliate member.

The American Bird Conservancy is where 20 years of bold action, focus on results, and partnership are bringing back the birds across the Western Hemisphere. The American Bird Conservancy was invaluable in Burroughs' lobbying efforts to oppose the Mill Creek Wind Farm in Holt County, Missouri.

Burroughs Audubon adopted Loess Bluffs National Wildlife Refuge (pronounced "luss") many years ago. Members of Burroughs Audubon also created and formed Friends of Loess Bluffs. Today, Burroughs Audubon supports Loess Bluffs National Wildlife Refuge through volunteer hours, serving on its Friends board, and paying for internships.

Audubon of Kansas is an independent grassroots nonprofit organization that promotes appreciation and stewardship of natural ecosystems in Kansas and the central Great Plains, with special emphasis on conservation of prairies, birds, other wildlife, and their habitat. Though it works in partnership with local Audubon chapters and many other organizations, it is neither funded nor administered by the National Audubon Society.
